NOT A SUCCESS.

The satisfaction which the courts derive in sending to the Penitentiary such men as Cannon, Musser, Watson and Pratt, is no satisfaction at all, for these men refuse to believe they have done wrong, and imprisonment cannot make them assume the attitude of having been guilty of misconduct. If the prison had enough of terror in it to induce these men to declare they had done wrong, the courts might feel that they were making progress in imposing imprisonment, but as the matter is, the courts must feel nonplussed and chagrined at their inability to do anything that will strike terror to the hearts of the sincere Mormons. Intelligent, thinking people will ask themselves, in the light of what is occurring here now-a-days, if it would not be better to let the "Utah Question" bring its own solution, and whether the solution would not come sooner if the matter were left to itself, than by attempting to force it. No one is silly enough to believe that a term in the penitentiary will shake the faith of any honest polygamist in the divinity of the plural wife system; no one believes that the honest husband of two wives will be anything else when he comes out of prison. Many thoughtful, wise persons have never had faith in prisons as corrective agents for the polygamous practices of the Mormons, and the late trials, with the cheerful conduct of the defendants, have tended to confirm the belief that whatever is wrong in the belief and practices of the Mormon people will be quickest and best righted by the people themselves through the operation of social influences and laws which are ever more certain in their effects than statutory enactments. When the Government puts a few more of these men into the penitentiary, and discovers that nobody's belief in celestial marriage is shaken thereby, perhaps it will ask itself if it is not guilty of making mistakes.

ALL HAPPY.

It is presumed that this will be a joyous day for Chief Justice Zane, District Attorney Dickson, Marshal Ireland and the minor and less brilliant luminaries by whom they are surrounded. This presumption is based upon the circumstance that to-day they will enjoy the fullness of the pleasure for which they have labored so long and with such determination. If they are not happy it is because the getting of what they want does not conduce to their happiness. To-day His Honor will have the exquisite pleasure of passing sentence upon three men who have been pronounced guilty of violating the Edmunds act, which declares it unlawful to cohabit with more than one woman. Dickson will enjoy the delight of having these men sentenced to imprisonment and the payment of heavy fines, and Ireland will have the luxury of enforcing the judgment of the court. How this trio will chuckle can only be understood by those who have watched the course of the court and its officers, and noted their efforts and manner in prosecuting the accused to conviction.

But full of happiness as will be the souls of those self-righteous officials, we question if they will be anything like as happy as the three men against whom their enmity and vindictiveness have manifested themselves. If we know Messrs. Cannon, Musser and Watson, while they may deplore the physical cruelty which confines them in a vile den, enforces upon them the companionship of lawless and depraved wretches, and puts them upon the coarse fare of the prison, in their hearts there will dwell greater peace, joy and contentment than will be known to Zane, Dickson and Ireland. The defendants do not go to the Penitentiary feeling that they are convicts, and no power, no degree of persecution or oppression, can make them feel that they are criminals; unless they have lived lives of fraud with themselves and their wives and children—which not even Zane will dare accuse them of doing—they will refuse to believe they are guilty of wrongdoing, and the prison cannot be made to disgrace them in their own eyes and in those of their friends and associates. They accept imprisonment not as punishment for something they have done, but as persecution for believing what they believe. There is no humiliation in the confinement which will begin to-day; but on the contrary, their imprisonment is held by them to be creditable to their faithfulness in religious belief and practice.

We are stating the case as it is in fact, and not as it may appear to the world. Under the circumstances, and considering the frame of mind in which each of the men named finds himself, it is only reasonable to imagine the three who will go to the penitentiary are the happier. They are certainly the more cheerful, and theirs is the joy of contentment and sincerity, while that of the Judge and his officers is not.

CONTEMPT.

Isn't it just possible that Mr. Attorney Dickson has incited Mr. Commissioner McKay to go one long step too far in committing the woman Deverell for contempt because she refused to name the father of her babe? Giving birth to a child is no crime in Utah, and as there are neither poor nor bastardy laws, and as the Territory does not contemplate fatherless children as public charges, we fail to see wherein the girl can be lawfully made to confess the name of her child's father. Ordinarily a woman is proud to let the world know who is the father of her offspring, but Miss Deverell prefers to keep the knowledge of her babe's progenitor a secret, and we do not believe that under our laws the information can be extorted from her, or that she can be legally committed to jail for contempt in refusing to answer the question. We understand the girl is poor and utterly unable to employ counsel, but her poverty ought not to prevent her from having the services of an attorney who will do what he can to obtain her rights before the law. The matter is important, and it had better be determined at once, and finally, before other women are ignorantly placed in the unpleasant predicament in which this girl finds herself.

DICKSON, ZANE and the caterpillars were a sore affliction for one poor Territory, and now to these is added the pestiferous vermin which are destroying the rose bushes and peach trees. Now if grasshoppers were to come the misery would be complete, and all the productive industries of the Territory would suffer alike.

It seems that Messrs. Zane, Dickson & Co. were not out of material, still having something to do. Whenever anything is to be done their man is ready to do it for them.

WHEN you have a Commissioner it is always better to have one who can be trusted.

CUTICURA

THE GREAT SKIN CURE.

My wife had a most annoying eruption make its appearance on the fingers of both hands about the first of last March. Supposed it was dry skin. Several physicians saw it, some diagnosing it as eczema, others pronouncing it salt rheum. A great many domestic remedies were used, with no effect. The disease steadily grew worse. The prescriptions of three of our very best physicians were tried, with but little better results. The terrible itching was so great as almost to deprive her of sleep. After two months of this suffering she began the use of CUTICURA. What was the result. The first application of the CUTICURA allayed the itching, and now, after four months' daily use of them, her hands are sound and well. I doubt not if they had been employed at first a cure would have been effected in a short time.

SCALL HEAD.

F. J. Truesdell, druggist, Connaut, O., reports a case as follows: The patient's head was almost a solid scab, and the dry scales constantly falling off his head, making his shoulders white in a few hours. Resuffered all the tortures imaginable with his head, burning and itching and a terrible headache all the time. Took three bottles of RESOLVENT, used two boxes CUTICURA and some CUTICURA SOAP, and was cured. Head is as entirely free from scabs as it was the day he was born. No more itching and burning, and no more headache. It seems almost incredible that anything could cure so bad a case so quickly. The patient says you do not claim half enough for CUTICURA.
